DAUGHTER'S DEATH CAUSE

Tragedy of White River Junction Followed Quarrel Said to Have Been Started by Churges of Neglect in Not Calling Doctor Earlier.

White River Junction, May 23 .- In the little hamler of Russtown beyond the State fair grounds and two miles from this village, there occurred at 12:20 this afternoon a shocking tragedy when Peter Laugier, a husband and father, met a violent death at his hill his wife whom he seriously, if not wounded. The whole followed a sudden quarrel which began by his accusing Mrs. Laugier of neglect not calling a doctor earlier in the last tilness of their 18-year-old daughwho died last week of pneumonia.

ter Laugier, who was about 50 years of age, had been living for a year on their daughter, for two years past employed in the family of George West this village, became ill with pneuwonla and died May 18. The death seemed to prey upon the mind of Laugwere unusual. This noon he accused the daughter had become ill. This, it revolver and shooting Mrs. Laugler in the neck. Dolly Madison! Truly the name itself is ne to conjure with. To one even who forgets all the dates and battles and great generals and other momentous events of istory, it clings with persistence like the ingering perfume of some old sweetness writes Cora A. Moore, in the May Nornher of the New Broadway Magazine, It means dimples and coquetry and laughing eyes and all the charm and witchers that make some women wonderful. Alt this Dolly was, the demure Quaker matden from Philadelphia, who burst from the chrysalls of a somber girlhood to the brilliant butterfly existence of a womanhood that found her the absolute queer of society, the arbiter of the positions of the day, the first lady of the land! Her parents, who were Friends, had loved from Virginia to Philadelphia for he advantages of the religious associa ions here afforded. Dorothea-they called her Dorothen then used to walk on Chestout Street in that afternoon which Chestnut Street still celebrates, and on in their gay brocades and bright-color ed silk stockings that peeped beneath ed all the sinful pretty fineries that he faith rebuked. At nineteen she married and proper Quaker, a lawyer of Philadel phin. At twenty-three she was a widow as herself.

Aaron Burr had asked | permission to statesmen of the day, and all in a flutter the gay young widow wrote oming to see me this evening." She go herself up in a matherry satin gown that et off to advantage the pearly white and delicate rose-tints of her complexion, and lor, she extended a soft, dimpled hand to the unimpressive little man in a suit of buckles, he was almost overcome by the radiance of her beauty, the langhing eyes that escaped from the demure cap of white tulle. She was the loveliest woman he had ever met, and he went at once about his woolng. In a few months the rumor of an engagement was affoat in selety, Martha Washington, with th privilege of a family connection, made When the widow blushingly admitted the truth, she was assured that it was all right and that the match should have the blessing of President and Mrs. Washing.

There followed a splendid wedding. The dun-colored Quaker abode in Philadelphia was not grand enough, and so it was celebrated in Virginia, at Harewood, the home of the bride's sister, and it was a very different scene from the first wedding that took place in the Friends' Meet greatest travelers in the world, says Harriet Quimby in Leslie's Weekly. They all seem imbued with the spirit of Columbus, and when we think of that venturer across strange waters in search of he knew not what, we can scarcely associate him with any other country as a native than ours. It is a noticeable fact that in every resort of prominence in England and on the Still Backwardness of the Season continent there are to be seen among the tourists during the season at least two Americans to every one representative of any other country, and in the African cities Americans are even more in predominance over travelers of other nationalities. Last year the statistics showed that between the first of January and the 20th of June 64.583 first cabin and 54,133 second cabin passengers sailed from North Atlantic ports, the numbers showing an increase of 2,889 first cabin and 5,800 second cabin over the record of the previous This season the above number year. must be considerably greater, for severa new liners have been added to the fleets and each one is well filled, and American faces-and one can distinguish them at once-are as familiar on the boulevards of and the Ghizeh drive of Cutro as they are in Fifth Avenue.

AMERICANS THE GREATEST OF TRAVELERS. Americans are rightfully called the

Whereas, John L. Sabre, guardian unto Millard P. Sabre, a minor residing in Alburgh, in said district, represents to said court that said Millard P. Sabre is one of the four children of Peter M. Sabre, late of Alburgh, deceased, said deceased, asving no widow that said Peter M. Sabre died intestate and left no property of any value above the encumbrances there on, and that the said Millard P. Sabre has no property, nor credits, of any value, but that the said Millard P. Sabre has no property, nor credits, of any value, but that the said Peter M. Sabre made a deed for the pretended centry in some real estate in said Alburgh to his children shortly previous to his death, constituting a cloud on the title to the said real estate, unon which real estate one George W. Sabre, at the same time, held a mortgage for an amount greater than the value thereof, and the conity in which real estate has been conveyed to the said George W. Sabre by all than the value thereof, and the equity in which real estate has been conveyed to the said George W. Sabre by all the health of said Peter M. Sabre other than said Millard P. Sabre, to clear than said Millard P. Sabre, to clear the title thereto, and the said guardian further represents to said court that it will be conductive to the interest of his said ward to sell his said wards share in the country of said real estate, the value of said real setting about $3000 and the said mortage thereon amounting to about $400. The said guardian therefore prays said court to grant him license to sell his wards interest in the real estate pursuant to the provisions of the statutes in such case made and provided.
